Dear Methods Core participants,

Please consider attending this seminar.

You are welcome to RSVP to me Estie Hudes (whether to be put on the building security list or to let us know that you are planning to attend), or to Rochelle Blanco

I will be out of the country starting 4/22, so might be slow to reply to emails. I am sorry to have to miss this important presentation

Thanks,
--Estie

Considerations around analyzing, writing up and publishing mixed methods research.

This will be a postdoctoral seminar. Any others who are interested are welcome to attend!

RSVP to Rochelle.Blanco@ucsf.edu to be added to the Security List for Mission Hall.

Michael Duke is a medical anthropologist and public health researcher whose work focuses on the physical and mental health of Latinos and Pacific Islander immigrant populations. A particular focus of his work concerns the role played by discrimination and historical trauma on depression, anxiety, substance abuse, and PTSD. His methodological areas of expertise include mixed methods research design, ethnography, and community based participatory research. He is currently the Director of Research at the Center for the Study of Child Care Employment at the University of California, Berkeley.
